The straight back, the unconfined waist, and the newest feature in vogue, the slightly curved front, all three essentials, emphatically demanded by the latest edict from Paris, go to make the figure of fashion, and are perfectly attained in the carefully modelled American Lady Corsets, designed to produce just these modish effects.

Pastors Cater Too Largely to Scholarship.

The president of the National Christian League for the Promotion of Purity, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis, replied:

Probably no man in the country has had wider practical experience in reform, civic improvement and charity work than Rudolph Blankenburg, Philadelphia's "independent" Mayor. Said he:

adelphia's "independent" Mayor. Said he:

"I would say that the church's greatest need is that each member of the community should devote a little more time to the correction of his own faults, and, as a consequence, a little less time to the correction of his neighbor's shortcomings. In other words, there is a tendency to-day for the bar to correct the mistakes of the clergy, the clergy to suggest improvement in the work of the judges, the judges to give lay instruction to the general public, every unit of the general public to reconstruct everything but himself.

"Once inaugurate a polley of sincerity with one's self in the individual and that individual, in all his relations with his fellow-man, whether such relations have to do with secular or sacred matters, will assume a new value, and each movement making for the general welfare receive a new impulse in the right direction."

good seed is sown in good soil there is bound to be a good harvest."

Church Needs Backbone.

The president of the Law and Order Society of Philadelphia, D. Clarence Gibbeney, answered:

"To strengthen its appeal the church most needs: First, backbone; second, sympathy, third, sacrifice; fourth, inspiration and initiative."

Backbone, because Christian affirmation, is battle against the negative forces. Religion is conviction in action, and action invites war. Most churches are afraid of war.

"Sympathy for the offender and hatred for the offense. Self-confession of our own intolerant attitude, resulting in the fastening on the people of sins which could not exist unless we permitted them and profited by them illustrated by our hypoerisy in blaming liquor evils on the dealers and forsetting or ignoring the shameful truth that we have made their business legal by profit-sharing license systems. Being responsible for the existence of the rum business, we try to fool ourselves by attempting to put the blame for the evils of drink upon our partners.

"Sacrince would test our capacity for grace. The toleration of the world toward the church is sufficient indicting the cost of principles and hesitate if the cost appears too much. Triumph awaits the church when the first question is the righteousness of things, and the last question the cost of things.

"Inspiration and initiative would end formalism and defiting Churches."

'Inspiration and initiative would end ormalism and drifting. Churches are pprehensive of new methods and only by them when driven by absolute eccesity. Some churches are morgues o bury laughter, hence young people cluse to be constant mourners and tay away from church."

It is because the Salvation Army lieves profoundly in the future of the arch that it is about to ask the peofor a million dollars to promote work.
